Introduction to Aavin :

The Erode District Cooperative Milk Producers' Union Limited is a replica of the District Milk Unions in Gujarat State based on the famed 'AMUL' system.

The Erode Milk Union is, therefore, sandwiched in the middle of the 3-tier system popularly known as the 'ANAND' or "AMUL" pattern consisting of an apex State level Federation at Chennai, the Unions at the district level and the primary cooperative societies at the village level.

The entire project has been funded by the National Dairy Development Board, Anand through the Government of Tamilnadu and the Tamilnadu Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation.

The Project has been funded under the nationwide Operation Flood Programme with an aim to bring about a socio economic awakening in rural India.

This field visit was much useful by knowing the detailed process of pasteurization of milk. Students came to know the importance and standards of hygienic procedures which ensures that the products are free from microbes and are safe to intake.
